K. Leroy Irvis

K. Leroy Irvis, formerly the Speaker of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, was elected to serve in that position on January 1, 1983, for the 1983-84 Session of the General Asembly. Irvis began his political career in 1958 when he was elected to the House of Representatives from Pittsburgh's Hill District. He was re-elected to that seat for fifteen consecutive terms.

Irvis has been in the leadership of the House since his third term, when he was elected Democratic Caucus Chairman and became the first Black representative elected to the House Leadership. Irvis rose through the ranks of leadership as Majority Caucus Chairman, Minority Whip, and Majority Leader. In May 1977, the House unanimously elected him Speaker. He was the first Black ever elected in the United States since Reconstruction era after the Civil War - the highest elected position ever held by a Black in Pennsylvania. In January 1979, the Democratic Caucus elected Irvis to serve as the House Democratic Leader for the 1979-80 session. He was re-elected to the post of Democratic Leader for the 1981-82 session.

Irvis has sponsored legislatation addressing his concerns for education, civil rights, health, consumer protection, prison reform, housing and governmental reform. His most noted achievements include the sponsorship and passage of legislation creating the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission, the Pennsylvania Higher Education Equal Opportunity Program; the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency; and, the Minority Business Development Authority. Irvis is also credited with suggesting the creation of the Community College System in the Commonwealth.

As a legislative leader, Irvis has supported reforms to promote efficiency and accountability in the business of the House of Representatives. Such reforms include creation of the House Ethics Committee; the Lobbyist Registration Act; Legislative Audit Advisory Commission and the House Bipartisan Management Committee.

Irvis was a delegate to the 1967-68 Pennsylvania Constitutional Convention; and, delegate to the Democratic National Conventions in 1968, 1972, and 1980. At the 1980 Democratic National Convention, Irvis served as Vice Chairman of the Pennsylvania Delegation and as Convention Co-Chairman. In 1982, Irvis was elected to serve as a member of the Democratic National Committee.

A native of Saugerties, New York, Irvis graduated summa cum laude, with degrees in History and English, from New York Teachers College. In 1939, he received a Masters Degree in English Literature from the University of New York at Albany. In 1969, the University awarded him the "Distinguished Alumnus Award for Political Leadership," honoring his work as a political leader. He also was awarded an honorary doctorate in Public Affairs from his university, S. U.N.Y. at Albany.

Irvis began teaching, in the Baltimore Public Schools. During World War II, his teaching career was interrupted while he served as a Civilian Attache to the War Department and taught aircraft riveting. In 1945, Irvis moved to Pittsburgh, to direct public relations for the Urban League. Later, he worked as a steel chipper for Cruicible Steel and news commentator and writer for the Pittsburgh Courier radio station. As an active community leader in Pittsburgh, Irvis organized the first demonstration against downtown department stores for their discriminatory hiring practices against Blacks.

While attending the University of Pittsburgh Law School, Irvis served on the Law Review Staff, became a member of Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Fraternity, and was awarded the Owens Fellowship. Irvis was elected to the Order of the Coif, and, in 1969 his law degree was convered into a Juris Doctorate.

After graduating from law school, Irvis served as a law clerk. In 1957, he was appointed Assistant District Attorney for Allegheny County. He held that position for six years, and later joined the law firm of Rose, Schmidt and Dixon. Later Irvis became associated with Baskin & Sears, P. C., of Pittsburgh.

Many organizations have honored Irvis for his public service, including: the NAACP for the commitment to civil rights, the Conference on Black Basic Education, the University of Pennsylvania, and the Pittsburgh Junior Chamber of Commerce. In 1979, Lincoln University of Pennsylvania conferred upon Irvis an Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws.

Irvis' civic involvements have included membership on the Boards of the United Black Front, Community Action Pittsburgh, Neighborhood Assistance Advisory Board, Three Rivers Improvement and Development, Greater Pittsburgh Business Development Corporation, the Post Gazette Dapper Dan Club, the Bidwell Cultural and Training Center, and WQED Public Television. He was a Trustee of the University of Pittsburgh and a member of the University of Pittsburgh Medical School Advisory Committee. He currently is Adjunct Professor of Law at the University of Pittsburgh and Distinguished Presidential Scholar at Temple University.

Irvis has promoted the arts in Pennsylvania by supporting legislation creating the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts. In 1977, he initiated the Legislative School Art Exhibit, an annual event which gives Commonwealth students the opportunity to display their work in the Capitol.

Irvis is married and has one daughter, Sherri and a son, Reginald.
